

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

The American Security and Trust Co. of Washington, D. In due time the sales were effected, the aggregate proceeds amounting to $56,500.

In connection therewith, the following extract from an unsolicited letter received from the Executor may prove of interest:

"It seems proper that I should express to you our entire satisfaction with your management and conduct of the sale. The cataloguing, on which so much depended, was admirably done, and the amount realized was fully up to the highest estimate of the value of the collection.

I have heretofore congratulated you personally on the success of the sale, and now beg you to accept this expression of our appreciation of the excellent service rendered in this connection by your Company to ours.

Yours very truly,

GIFT OF

to the Evacuation of New York, in one of which from Gen. Henry Knox (No. 97), it is rather touching to read that Washington desires he shall pick out the American soldiers having the best uniforms to come in and take possession. As one can imagine, they would be a rather sorry-looking crowd in comparison with the gay British Redcoats.

A magnificent and eloquent letter of Thomas Jefferson (No. 88) on the evils of Slavery, and in which he prophesies the Civil War "as a leaf of our history not yet turned over," is well worth attention; as is a fine letter of the pioneer and Indian fighter, Daniel Boone (No. 17); Benjamin Franklin on his mission to England in 1762 (No. 55); John C. Calhoun on the Annexation of Texas (No. 27); a War Letter of Abraham Lincoln, 1861, in which he says he "hates to reject any offer from what is called a Southern State" (No. 104); and many others of equally great intrinsic value, including the Governors of New York, the Mayors of New York City, manuscripts of Joseph Rodman Drake, Jas. K. Paulding, etc.

In the English and European division, brief mention should be made of letters and documents of the Popes of Rome and the Cardinals, including Jules Mazarin; the rare autographs of Catherine de Medici, Alessandro Volta (discoverer of the Voltaic Pile); Voltaire; four pages of the original manuscript of Faust, containing Faust's instructions to the Princes; manuscript poem by Dr. Johnson; the publishers' receipt for Boswell's famous "Life"; partly unpublished letters of extraordinary interest of Robert Burns; of the beautiful Lady Hamilton and her receipt for a "thatched straw bonnett"; letters of Byron and his mother complaining of his extravagance; of Richard Steele and George Steevens, the Shakesperean Critic; of William Cowper and his life with Mrs. Unwins; curious family letters of the Duke of Buckingham; the Earl of Cardigan's own account of the Charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava; autobiographical letters of Marie Corelli; a letter of "Chinese Gordon" written from Khartoum; letters of Warren Hastings, George Morland; Samuel Pepys (D. S.); and others of the French and English Royalty.

An Extremely Rare Autograph, and an amusing and fine letter. Boone's position as one of the greatest pioneers of Western exploration must always make any relic of him of the utmost interest and value. One point evidenced by the letter is that Daniel Boone must also rank as one of the earliest of American humorists from his unconscious pun, "I could take Down the flower as I paste that place." In this year (1791) Kentucky was admitted into the Union, Boone's title to his land was invalidated, and he moved farther West to Missouri.

As for GEN'L LEE—if the Act for sending our Prisoners to England is put in force—there need be no distinction made between him and other gentlemen; for then they will all be treated alike. General Washington gives out that he intended to transport a vast number of Troops on to the Island. Having got all things on board they set out, & are landed in York. LAURENS (HENRY).

PHIA . . . HIS SON GOES TO-MORROW TO SEE and also TO SUCCEED HIM AS A DELEGATE . . . Gen. Lee and Gen. 105. — CARD PHOTOGRAPH, a contemporary issue, with the address of a London House on the mount and the date 1862. (Apparently a negative of Lincoln must have been sent to England at the beginning of the war, and some photographs made there.) Describes the progress of the French Revolution, the truce with Austria, and England's reputed interference; speaks as well of the DELICIOUS VIRGINIA HAMS, and asks that 100 be sent him, as his French friends seem to appreciate them greatly.

MONTGOMERY (GEN. RICHARD).

unfortunate inhabitants of Quebec—to what purpose do you compell me to distress them? You can but protract for a few days that event which must inevitably in a very short time take place. If you possess any share of humanity, you will not sacrifice the lives and properties of so many innocent people to a vain punctilio.

Embrace the opportunity I offer you of retiring in a manner suitable to your rank. You shall not be a Prisoner. You shall have a safe conduct to New York or wheresoever else you may chuse to embark—the Lieutenant Governor shall have the same indulgence.

I engage in the most solemn manner for the security of the lives and properties of the Citizens—our dispute is not with them—we bear them no malice & the hopes of affording them relief alone induce me to make these proposals.

Should you decline the offer I now make, I hope I shall stand acquitted in the eyes of the world of the fatal consequences which must attend your refusal & which I have sufficiently explained in my former letter. RICHARD MONTGOMERY."

The letter bears evidence of the haste with which it was written, and as Carleton had refused to let a flag of truce come into Quebec, Montgomery got it to him by a private citizen.

4to. no date, no place [Philadelphia?] [April, 1793].

*"I have this moment received your orders . . . to detach one hundred men from this Garrison to reinforce Col. Malmadie at Lampliere's Point . . . I have now but 109 privates left that are fit for duty. I can scarcely imagine that you recollect that circumstance, or considered the many posts I am under a necessity of occupying here in order to prevent a surprise . . . I do not now hold myself answerable if this Garrison should . . . fall through weakness . . . It will however increase my anxiety for the fate of my Country. I have taken your Orderly into custody. WASHINGTON'S PLAN FOR ATTACKING THE BRITISH IN

Abt Two Thousand American Troops, besides SHELDON's LEGION are to parade & March at the same time—the whole to be served with provisions for three days. . . .

"At the Heights above Courtlands & back of old Fort Independence the Columns will separate—the American . . . will . . . possess the ground in the rear of Courtlands & fronting Kings bridge; while the French Troops extend . . . upon the heights back of Fort Independence.

375. BURNS (ROBERT—Poet). A. L. S., 2 pp. 4to, Old Rome Ford, July 30, 1786. To John Richmond, clerk of Mr. Wilson, WHO ISSUED THE KILMARNOCK EDITION OF BURNS' POEMS in this year, SO THAT BURNS MIGHT PAY HIS PASSAGE-MONEY TO AMERICA. The full sheet of letter-paper, with superscription.

This and the following letter of Robert Burns were written at a critical point in his career, and give certain details affecting his private life which merit attention, and a portion of which HAS NEVER BEEN PRINTED in Burns' Life and Letters. The farm he and his brother Gilbert were running proved a complete failure, the parents of Jean Armour had destroyed the written declaration of marriage he had given her, preferring her loss of reputation to a marriage with Burns, and the "Kilmarnock edition" of his poems had brought him sufficient to pay his passage money to America:

LETTERS OF THE HIGHEST LITERARY AND BIOGRAPHICAL INTEREST.

"My hour is now come . . . I have orders to repair aboard the Nancy . . . Armour has got a warrant to throw me in jail . . . This they keep an entire secret, but I get it by a channel they little dream of; and I am wandering from one friend's house to another, and like a true son of the Gospel 'have no where to lay my head'—I know you will pour an execration on her head, but spare the poor ill-advised girl for my sake; tho' may all the Furies that rend the injured, enraged Lovers' bosom, await the old Harridan, her Mother, . . . May Hell string the Arm of Death to throw the fatal dart, and all the winds of warring elements rouse the infernal flames to welcome her approach . . . I write in a moment of rage, reflecting on my miserable situation—exil'd, abandon'd forlorn—I can write no more—" etc.

With engraved portrait, inlaid. (As 1 piece.)

376. — ANOTHER AND MUCH LONGER AUTOGRAPH LETTER, SIGNED, TO JOHN RICHMOND 2 full folio pages. MOSSGIEL, Sept. 1st, 1786. A month later, and Burns is still getting ready to sail.

"I am still here in statu quo, tho' I well expected to have been on my way over the Atlantic by this time. The Nancy . . . did not give me warning enough. Two days notice was too little for me to wind up my affairs . . . I am now to be a passenger aboard the Bell, Capt. Cathcart, who sails the end of this month.—

I am under little apprehension now about Armour.—The warrant is still in existence, but some of the first gentlemen in the county have offered to befriend me; and besides Jean will not take any step against me, without letting me know . . . I have called on her once and again, of late; as . . . , at this moment . . . I cannot help being anxious, very anxious, for her . . . She would gladly now embrace that offer she once rejected, but it shall never more be in her power. . . ."

He then goes on to condemn Wilson for his conduct toward a young girl whom he names, and quotes Otway to prove that this conduct "is highly inconsistent with manly Integrity; followed by a MOST INTERESTING REFERENCE TO HIS POEMS:

"I do not know if Smith wrote you along with my book; but I tell you now, I present you with that Copy, as a memento of * CARDIGAN'S OWN ACCOUNT OF THE FAMOUS CHARGE OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE, dictated to Stephen Massett, May 14, 1867, written out by the latter and signed by the Earl; with Massett's account (in pencil) of the circumstances under which it was made.

AN HISTORICAL DOCUMENT OF THE HIGHEST INTEREST, and giving an AUTHENTIC ACCOUNT OF THE ORDER WHICH CAUSED THE CHARGE OF THE 600 to be made, concerning which there has been much dispute:

"Capt. Nolan came forward and told Lord Lucan . . . that the Light Brigade were to attack . . . Lord Lucan rode up to Lord Cardigan, and said, 'It is Lord Raglan's order that the Light Brigade is to attack the Russians in the Valley.'" Lord Cardigan acknowledged the order, but protested, whereupon Lord Lucan answered: "I cannot help that, it is Lord Raglan's positive order that the Light Brigade is to attack them . . ."

He then gives a stirring account of the charge, his own hand-to-hand conflict with the Cossacks, Nolan's fearful shrieks when hit by a Russian shell (Nolan was the first man killed), Gen. Scarlet meeting him and telling him he had ridden over Nolan's dead body, etc.

"I then had my Brigade counted . . . and found . . . only 195 men present out of 650."

He tells of Lord Raglan's rage when he reported to him, and gives their conversation.

Carlyle thanks him for his edition of Burns: "It is wholly a beautiful Book, and shall become my Family Burns (second only to the Family Bible in a Scotchman's Library)." He then says of himself: "Nothing can equal the bilious stupefaction in which I sit for these many weeks, as if spell-bound; struggling with scarcely perceptible result," etc. Only a few weeks previous, the entire first part of his "French Revolution" had been destroyed by a stupid servant of John Stuart Mill, who took it to light the fire; and this, perhaps, accounted for his depression.

Extract from the Will of Edmond de Goncourt:
(Trans.)

"My wish is that my Drawings, my Prints, my Curiosities, my Books—in a word these things of art which have been the joy of my life—shall not be consigned to the cold tomb of a museum, and subjected to the stupid glance of the careless passer-by; but I require that they shall all be dispersed under the hammer of the Auctioneer, so that the pleasure which the acquiring of each one of them has given me shall be given again, in each case, to some inheritor of my own tastes."
